

At Big Oil Co, our mission is simple: Continuing technological breakthroughs in cannabis, driven by data and automation, producing highly desirable products, adding consistent value to our customers.

Big Oil Co is an award-winning legacy cannabis company. We have been working hard to get amazing products to all of California and eventually world wide. We are looking for an individual to follow the lead of the lab director and work with the lead extractor producing desired bho consistencies for a myriad of brands. Experience is desired, but anyone that shares our values of using data to make the best decisions possible, thrives in a position that requires constant decision making, and is looking to consistently improve our processes and embody the kaizen mindset. A hard working individual able to troubleshoot problems and keep track of the large daily workload.

Come join us.
